

At-Home Retreat

WITH A BUSY lifestyle often calling them away from home, these owners wanted to make the time they did spend there as restful and restorative as possible. In line with this vision was a complete bathroom remodel completed by Leslie Fine of Leslie Fine Interiors, Inc., who transformed the bathroom into a spa-like retreat.

Fine began the project by completely shaking up the pre-existing layout of the master bath, which was originally a confined space of four separate rooms. What was left in the wake of these changes was a completely open floor plan. By removing the walls between the separate rooms, the space was made more functional and inviting. Now rather than feeling closed-in, the space is flooded with natural light. Additional light is provided by the hanging light fixtures, which also mimic the effect of the newly installed two-sided stainless steel mirrors that are anchored from the ceiling. This mirror design helps support the unusual double vanity configuration, which places the vanities in the center of the room, without creating a hemmed in feel.

Adding to the beauty of the spa-like design is the mosaic and limestone tile within the shower and behind the makeup vanity. To show off this bohemian touch, the shower was outfitted with custom glass doors. Learn more about this designer at www.lesliefineinteriors.com. «
